

Schiebel establishes Australian subsidiary

Austrian unmanned aircraft systems (UAS) producer Schiebel has established a subsidiary in Australia to pursue sales opportunities in the country and the wider Asia Pacific.

Schiebel said on 3 September that the new company, Schiebel Pacific Pty Ltd (SPL), will “provide the Pacific region with a permanent and comprehensive programme, logistics and sales hub”.

It added that SPL – based in New South Wales – will be positioned to support and service existing contracts in the country and provide a base for regional growth. The new company will operate in both military and commercial sectors.

Hans Georg Schiebel, chairman of the Schiebel Group, said, “Establishing a permanent base in Australia, managed and run by Australians, is a logical next step for Schiebel as the Pacific region is of significant strategic interest to us.”